A decent roof over one's head is the most minimal need of a human being. A home gives a tremendous sense of security, spurs education, lays the foundation of a sustainable livelihood and builds a fine family. The children of Prem Dan come from all different walks of life, from different localities, different slums. We do have children who live, work and learn the hard ways of life. Quite a number have their homes on the pathways, road sides, under a staircase or in the open market. Many of us would find it difficult to cope with all that surrounds us yet these families find their inner strength, vitality and happiness in these situations. They love going to school either the nursery or a high school and then return to the "Security" of their home. They eat, cook their food, study and sleep, relax in this place which they all call HOME

Everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of himself and of his family, including food, clothing, housing and medical care and necessary social services, and the right to security in the event of unemployment, sickness, disability, widowhood, old age or other lack of livelihood in circumstances beyond his control." – Universal Declaration of Human Rights, article 25, par. 1

The growing number of migrants looking for employment and better living standards in India's big cities are increasing India's homeless population day by day.

Our CONGRATULATIONS to you for the encouragement, love interest you showered on our forty-three students who were successful in the SSC exams held in March 2014. Most of them have joined the second stage of their Education doing the Junior College either opting for Arts, Science or Commerce.
